

2022

CATALOGUE

NO rules

No Rules (official name in Serbian: Nema pravila) is an association of artists, writers and professionals

Our team has been working actively in the field of culture since 2014, firstly by publishing an online portal-magazine. Our mission has always been to promote literature and to foster cultural diversity so we published texts from all over the world, took part in editing books by acclaimed publishers, organised cultural events in Serbia and abroad, translated numerous texts from French, Spanish, Arabic, English, Greek, Chinese into Serbian for magazines and promoted it on TV, Radio and daily newspapers. Our books ycan be found in the most prominent bookshops in Belgrade (Delfi, Urban books, Beopolis, Makart, Booka, Roman, Apropo, Štrik; Most, Zenit and Bulevarbuks in Novi Sad). Our books are available as e-books as well at: novinarnica.net

Our sections are the following

Orientation: books related to the Near and Middle East (Beyond Dubai by David Millar, Women Image in Wartime Discourse, a collection of articles in Turkish language)

On the Wrong Path: high quality old literature that was ignored, neglected or less known (F. Marryat, Rene Vivien, first Serbian controversial female prose by Leposava Mijušković)

Intimate Guides: creative non-fiction guides through cities, phenomena, etc (Vienna and Belgrade by G. Novaković, My Lisbon by F. Pessoa, Prague by Dragan Lazukić, China by Dušan Crkvenjakov, Subotica city by Janoš Sekereš)

UnPROSAic: different fiction (Dušan Jevtić, Marko Galić, Milica Radovančev, Hanna Gadomski, Nenad Milenković Panić, Nenad Baraković, Daniel Kuzman, in plan: Igor Mišković, Milena Babić)

Poesis: poetry (Petros Stefaneas, James Meetze, Aleksandar Mitrović, Andreas Unterweger, Šimon Cubota, in plan: an anthology of modern Chinese poetry, Mina Poznanović, Goran Lončarević)

Our team

Sofija Živković / Sofia Zivkovic, editor-in-chief, philologist, writer, cultural journalist, Spanish translator

Vladimir Živanović: sinologist, Chinese, English and Russian translator, Serbian proofreader, editor

Irena Plaović: teaching assistant at the Faculty of Philology in Belgrade, author of various books, theatre critic

Bojana AntoniĆ: philologist, librarian and PR (social web manager) of the Faculty of Philology in Belgrade

Tatjana MediĆ: arabist, Arabic teacher at Arab cultural centre and abroad, MA in politicology and poet

Milica Špadijer: an awarded poet and journalist, Greek translator, Greek and Latin teacher

Dejan Acović: a prolific French translator, Greek and Latin teacher

Dragana Nikolić: an acclaimed book designer, design teacher and art director of Belgrade International Poetry Festival TreĆi trg

Vukašin Simonović: germanist, awarded young translator

Karapazar and other Dorćol tales

Genre: short fiction

ISBN:
978-86-902369-1-6
Paperback, B6

This collection of tales is set in Dorthyol, the oldest and the most Oriental part of Belgrade. Each tale contains its specific vibe and atmosphere, especially the tale Karapazar written by an acclaimed dramaturgist Mihailo Vitezović. The word Karapazar is Turkish and means black marketplace. The whole story and the whole book reminds us mostly of the all forgotten Turkish, Jewish, archaic traces in this neighbourhood. This book contains 16 different voices and attitudes towards Dorćol and Oriental heritage.

Goran Novaković
Vienna for Balkan people: user manual for the city

Genre: non fiction

ISBN:
978-86-902369-2-3
Paperback, A5

Goran Novaković, Belgradian employed at the Municipality of Vienna, Department for integration and diversity, wrote an ultra interesting book, especially for those who live in Vienna or would like to know more about the authentic being of this city. First of all written for people for Balkan people but also useful for people from any so-called patriarchal cultural circle, providing lucid and witty observations about Viennese people and customs, differences between Western and Eastern context.

Goran Novaković,
A Little glossary of 21st century Belgrade

Genre: non fiction

ISBN:
 978-86-902369-0-9
 Paperback, A5

Another book by Goran Novaković, brings us more than 40 notions about modern capital city of Serbia and former Yugoslavia, written with recognisable Goran's humour and everyday tone but full of useful information as well. Here you can find notions as: Kafana (traditional restaurant), Lift, Cafes, Pharmacy, Belgrade women, Belgrade men, Belgradian, Gypsies, Grafitti, Trams, Trolleybuses, etc.

copyrights sold for Arabic language (Egypt)*

Marko Galić,
Fuga Idearum

Genre: short fiction

ISBN:
 978-86-81882-02-3
 Paperback, A5

A short fiction by an emerging writer from Novi Sad, Serbia. This book enriches reader's world in diversity and colours, bizarre situations and outcomes, unusual characters and contemplative passages. The whole book is illustrated by an acclaimed and talented illustrator, Radana Drašković.

Jonathan Boulting,
London plane: Belgrade sonnets

Genre: poetry

ISBN:
978-86-81882-03-0
Paperback, B6

This poetry collection was written in English by university lecturer and English scholar Jonathan Boulting and it presents much more than a mere collection of poems set in Belgrade. It is a collection of images, sensations and observations about Belgrade life, people, atmosphere and its specific position between Eastern and Western world.

Hanna Gadomski,
Mother tongue

Genre: novelle

ISBN:
978-86-81882-05-4
Paperback, B6

This novelle by an acclaimed author and cultural journalist at our national radio we can treat as action and magical fiction. The exact epithet would be “Belgrade magical realism” and all the scenography is set in nocturne streets, places, cafes. The characters are seeking for a specific book that always shows the text written in reader’s native tongue. That book should be found and confiscated ASAP...

Nenad Milenković
Panić,
*Under the wheel:
public transport tales*

Genre: short fiction

ISBN:
978-86-81882-07-8
Paperback, B6

A very unique collection of short stories set in various public transport lines in Belgrade. The author is designer, bus driver and traveler and this book offers an incredible material about people, situations and conversations that he heard or held in Belgrade buses.

Dušan Jevtić,
Fearful tower

Genre: novel

ISBN:
978-86-81882-09-2
Paperback, A5

This novel is written by an historian from Niš, Serbia and treats a fictional story about an Austrian lady who tries to find a secret in Serbia. This prose can be considered as historical fiction or historical mistery and is full of suspense.

Nenad Baraković,
One-dollar tales

Genre: stories

ISBN:
978-86-81882-10-8
Paperback, A5

„One-dollar tales” by Nenad Baraković are undoubtedly something very fresh and sharp in our prose. Marko Vidojković, an acclaimed writer, wrote the blurb for this book and praised Baraković’s sense of humour and absurd. Sort of Serbian Danil Harms of modern generation.

Milica Radovančević
Self-proclaimed manuscript

Genre: novel

ISBN:
978-86-81882-08-5
Paperback, A5

This novel written by a young and perspective writer treats a very unusual topic based on true story: cutting books in Belgrade City library and making new ones by unifying the patches. Unsatisfied reader, Sima Dostanić, decides to change the course of the books he doesn’t like! There is a whole gallery of characters involved in this “crime” and the outcome is something completely unexpected..

*Šimon Tsubota,
8 seconds of the yard*

Genre: poetry

ISBN:
978-86-81882-17-7

Narrative poetry by an awarded half-Serbian half-Japanese young poet dedicated to Joseph Cornell, an acclaimed artist from New York. A very exciting poetry experience!

copyrights sold for French language (France)*

Dragan Lazukić, Got a cigarette, mate?

Genre: novel

ISBN:
978-86-81882-19-1

A novel set in Prague and Bosnia, after the war in Yugoslavia. A novel about an ordinary man from Balkan trying to find his own happiness and to forget his past. The dialogues are very vivid and vibrant, especially when describing Bosnian period.

Leposava Mijušković, Tales about soul

Genre: short fiction

ISBN:
978-86-81882-16-0
Paperback, A5

This prose represents a very controversial feminist prose in Serbian old literature. Enriched with Bojana Antonic's introduction this book offers a very special travel through women soul and its chaotic depth.

This is the first time after 25 years that her work has been published again accompanied by a detailed preface.

Daniel Kuzman, Military days

Genre: novel

ISBN:
987-86-81882-22-11
Paperback, A5

Antimilitary prose about Yugoslavia written on almost 1000 pages. Full of humour, fraternity and nostalgia. This is not about a nostalgia for military days but for an unity and good relations with all the Yugoslav nations.

*Nikola Radić,
A range of cracks*

Genre: novel

ISBN:
978-86-81882-20-7
Paperback, A5

This novel entitled A range of cracks has been written by an acclaimed film critic and French translator Nikola Radić and treats a very catchy topic: a painter who plagiarizes famous painters' canvases. We can hear his intimate confession and enjoy its labyrinths. The novel is set in Belgrade but partly connected to Lyon, France.

*Fernando Pessoa,
On provincialism*
translated by Mladen Ćirić,
Tamara Nikolić

Genre: essay
Original language:
Portugal

ISBN:
978-86-81882-18-4
Paperback, B6

Micro essays about provincial mentality and narrow-minded attitudes that can be found in any country and culture, written by the renown author of Lisbon chronicles.

Andreas Unterveger,
No poem

translated by Sofija Mišković and Vanessa Vaštag

Genre: poetry
Original language: German

ISBN:
978-86-81882-12-2
Paperback, A5

An acclaimed Austrian poet from Graz, editor-in-chief of an acclaimed literary magazine: Manuskripte. French philologist, musician, poet and editor. This is his first book in Serbian translation.

Petros Stefaneas, Aphrodite in Blue
translated by Milica Špadijer

Genre: poetry
Original language: Greek

ISBN:
978-86-81882-11
Paperback, A5

A modern Greek poet with an intensive poetic world and authentic contemplation on beauty building a modern mythology. His poetry was published in France and Spain.

This is the first translation of his work into Serbian. The translation was made by an acclaimed poet and translator Milica Špadijer.

Fernando Pessoa,
My Lisbon
translated by Vladimir Živanović

Genre: guide book
Original language: English

ISBN:
978-86-81882-01-6
Paperback, B6

Pessoa's guide through Lisbon. Very nice guide book for anyone who would like to visit this city, guided by a famous writer.

This is not fiction but the value we can find in the fact that has been written by beloved Fernando Pessoa.

James Meetze,
Late in long now
translated by
Uroš Ristanović

Genre: poetry
Original language: English

ISBN:
978-86-81882-06-1
Paperback, A5

Modern American poet and lecturer from California, James Metze, researches time, durability and eternity in a lyrical way and enriched by desert landscape.

Lost in the desert, lost in the time, Meetze writes about universal dilemmas and questions of our lives.

Rene Vivien,
Sappho and other tales
 translated by Dejan Acović

Genre: essay + fiction
 Original language: French

ISBN:
 978-86-902369-3-0
 Paperback, A5

Rene Vivien was sort of female Oscar Wilde and wrote only in French, although she was of British origin. Stunning and provocative prose, an essay about antic Greek poetesses, confessions of unusual people from Paris, a satire about Jesus Christ, all that in one book. This is the first translation of this impressive author into Serbian.

Frederick Marryat,
How to write a fashion novel / a travel book
 translated by
 Vladimir Živanović

Genre: satire, drama
 Original Language: English

ISBN:
 978-86-902369-4-7
 Paperback, B6

Marryat's satire, hilarious, witty and wry humour, making fun of those who pretend to be travelers or writers. The dialogues are "flowing" fastly and reader doesn't have an impression that this is a play, although we must say that this is a play, a drama, a comedy, because of the dialogues.

A collection of essays on women image in war time discourse, various authors, various points of view. The book will be published with support of Sharjah Translation Grant during 2021.

Original language: Turkish

COMING SOON

An incredible journey through the history of Dubai and its forgotten stories and mystical places, entitled in English original as Beyond Dubai: seeking lost cities in the Emirates. David Millar lived in Dubai for many years and worked as journalist for various newspapers. This is the first translation of his work into any foreign language.

Original language: English

Nobel prize winner, magical realism wizard, an incredible author held incredible lectures on English literature at the university of Buenos Aires. This is the first translation of this book into Serbian.

Original language: Spanish

Annemarie Schwarzenbach, a controversial and queer Swiss author, died in 1942. This is the first translation ever made in Serbian language presenting her work. A happy valley is a lyrical travelogue through Causasus impregnated by poetic and contemplative impressions.

Original language: German

A hybrid book of essays and fiction by an awarded Tessin author Matteo Terzaghi entitled An office for luminous projections. This is the first translation in Serbian language presenting an author from a small Italian enclave Tessin in Switzerland.

Original language: Italian

The following books will be published during 2022:

Boys will not carry weapon, prose by Jelena Paligorić Sinkević

Axios, a short novel by Igor Mišković

Elementary particles, stories by Nenad Milenković Panić

On writers and writing, satire by F. Marryat

Sounds of the streets, a travel-novel by Dušan Crkvenjakov

Rejkjavik, a novel by Milena Babić

Seesaw, poetry by Mina Poznanović

Floating, poetry by Goran Lončarević

Hymn to Athens, a long poem by Greek poet Kostas Palamas

Persecuted, a novel by Slavica Milošević

Afro-Brasilian short fiction anthology

On classicistic elements in literature, essays by Chinese writer
Lu Xun

Subotica na(rra)tion, stories by Janoš Sekereš

Graz-Wien express, short fiction anthology in German language

Hedonism, a novelle by Olivera Lukić

norulespublishing.com

NO
rules

norulespublishing@gmail.com